New Points about Diabetes mellitus and Its visual impairments
Seyed Mazhari, marjan

Abstract

Background: Diabetes mellitus is the most important disease in the world. Investigations show that 50% of adults above 65 years old experiment Glucose Tolerance impairment and because of it’s terrible effects, diabetes is the most important cause of blindness. So controlling this disease and it’s effects are so important step in community health services.

Material and Method: This is a review article. The information is based on searching in library internet.

Results: Diabetes mellitus is a kind of metabolic disorder which has a lot of serious effect. One of this serious effects is visual disorder, and we can divided this visual disorder to proliferative Retinopathy, Non proliferative Retinopathy, Cataract, eye muscle plegia, optic neuropathy and…

Therefore it is so important to promote our knowledge about this disease, the methods of prevention, controlling these effects and for this reason health care members educate people about this disease.

Keywords: Diabetes, Visual effects